OBJECTS OF ADMINISTRATIVE AND LEGAL PROTECTION OF THE ENVIRONMENT

In the article actual questions on objects of administrative and legal protection of the environment are considered. Noticed that under current conditions of global challenges the problem of environmental security is one of the most important priorities of the world community, as the environmental crisis affects any state, including Ukraine. Recently, the state of the environment in Ukraine has been deteriorating, and among the priorities that differ in this context should be the creation of an effective mechanism of administrative and legal protection of the environment.

According to the current legislation of Ukraine, state protection and regulation of use on the territory of Ukraine are subject to: 1) environment as a set of natural and natural and social conditions and processes; natural resources both involved in the economic turnover and unused in the economy in a given period (land, subsurface, water, air, forest and other vegetation, wildlife), landscapes and other natural complexes; 2) natural territories and objects subject to special protection (territories and objects of the natural reserve fund and other territories and objects determined in accordance with the legislation of Ukraine); health and life of people - from the negative impact of adverse environmental conditions.

Taking this into account, the conclusion is made that the most important objects of administrative and legal protection of the natural environment can include: land, its subsoil, atmospheric air, water and other natural resources located within the territory of Ukraine, natural resources of its continental shelf, exclusive (maritime) economic zone and the like. Features of the legal regulation of the status of nature objects is that their legal status is established by a significant number of regulatory legal acts of various levels, and the adoption of measures of administrative and legal protection of the environment is the competence of specially authorized bodies.
